

From the Tap

Guest beers on tap

Chimay 'Blanche' (White) (Belgium — Authentic Trappist) 8%

New Zealanders have long enjoyed this internationally revered Trappist ale in bottles. Now, Malthouse is one of the first bars in the country to offer it fresh on tap. This strong, unpasteurised Tripel pours a handsome cloudy gold with a pillowed white head. The nose is dry, hoppy and yeasty — unmistakably Belgian. It is full bodied with hints of orange, juniper, spices and hops before a peppery, dry finish. 330ml $12

Cock & Bull 'Fuggles' (Auckland, New Zealand) 4%

Made in Auckland with premium English malt and hops, Fuggles is a Kiwi best bitter bursting with fruity esters and subtle, earthy hops. Thick, creamy and balanced, Fuggles could only be more English if it won the Ashes. (Handpulled) 425ml $9

Epic 'Armageddon' IPA (Auckland, New Zealand) 6.66%

The latest and perhaps most powerful product from Luke Nicholas, the impish brewer, is Epic Armageddon. This limited-edition hop bomb is bigger than Mayhem. Packed with insane levels of hops, Armageddon has notes of grapefruit, passionfruit and lychees chased by a resinous, intense bitter finish. Truly, this is a zymurgical big bang. 380ml $9, 425ml $10

Harrington's 'Wobbly Boot' Porter (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

This inky black porter throws a subtle chocolate nose over a mocha head. Soft in the mouth, Wobbly Boot is packed with chocolate, roasted coffee and even a little smokiness. Legend has it that "wobbly boot" was a Victorian-era euphemism for an unsteady gait created by over-consumption. 425ml $8.5

House favourites

Tuatara Pilsner (Wellington, New Zealand) 5%

This beer has a floral, grassy nose followed by a smooth malty middle with some late citrus tingles. A long, dry finish with touches of lime makes this an effortlessly balanced and most drinkable drop. 425ml $7.5

Tuatara Helles (Wellington, New Zealand) 5%

The newest addition to the Tuatara range is Helles, a traditional German style of lager famed for its drinkability and balance. Light gold in colour, Helles has a touch of noble hop aroma while in the glass there is a decent burst of early malt sweetness balanced by a late, crisp finish. 425ml $7.5

Tuatara Hefe (Wellington, New Zealand) 5%

Tuatara Hefe will shake up your beer preconceptions. It may challenge some with its flavours of banana, juicyfruit gum, vanilla and spicy cloves but there are few beers more refreshing. 380ml $7, 500ml $8

Tuatara IPA (Wellington, New Zealand) 5%

This Indian Pale Ale showcases the popular style of strong, hoppy beer originally developed to survive the long voyage of British colonists and soldiers. Full in the mouth, there is tropical fruitiness before an imperial bitter finish. 425ml $7.5

Tuatara 'Ardennes' (Wellington, New Zealand) 6.5%

The 'Ardennes' ale is a suitably robust and boisterous beverage based on the Belgian strong ale style. The big, chewy body follows through with more orange, spice and pepper. A complex, bitter and fruity aftertaste rounds out this brew. 380ml $8.5

Tuatara Porter (Wellington, New Zealand) 5%

Pouring almost black with a mousey head, Tuatara's Porter has a rich, dark and peaty nose. The beer is slightly creamy with lashings of malt sweetness, chocolate and burnt Vogel's toast notes. It closes with a short, sharp finish. (Handpulled) 425ml $7.5

Lagers

Export Gold (Auckland, New Zealand) 4%

Export (as it is known by its loyal adherents) is an extremely popular golden lager from the good people at DB Breweries. It pours a bright gold and has some delicate late hop character and crisp dry finish. 425ml $6.5

Gisborne Gold (Gisborne, New Zealand) 4%

This is the best beer of brewer Geoff Logan, and it has an almost cult-like following of devotees. It is a well-made lager with a grassy aroma, firm bitter finish and a distinctive mineral note which is unmistakable. 425ml $6.5

Monteith's 'Golden' Lager (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Clear and golden with a dense, white head that leaves some laces. Lightly sweet aroma of malt and brewing cereal. Medium body with a refreshingly clean finish. A classic Kiwi lager — just with a bit more body. 425ml $7

Monteith's Pilsner (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

The Pilsner is a golden beer with a touch of fresh malt fullness in the body and a gently bitter hop finish. This is a simple, balanced and unpretentious beer. 425ml $7

Monteith's "Radler™" (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Inspired by a classic German style of beer designed for thirsty cyclists ("radler" simply means "cyclist"), this beer is made with lemon and lime which produces a refreshing lager with a citrus twist. Because of its lack of bitterness, Radler is very popular with non-traditional beer drinkers. 425ml $7

Monteith's 'Original' (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

This beer is where the Monteith's story all began. Surprisingly dark and pleasantly complex, this well-balanced beer has a good malt body and a subtle hop bitterness at the end. 425ml $7

Tui (Mangatinoka, New Zealand) 4%

World famous in New Zealand for its irreverent ads, Tui has grown from a Palmerston North student beer into one of the most consumed brands in the country. It's a simple, easy drinking, New Zealand draught beer. 425ml $6.5

Hofbräu 'Original' (Germany) 5.1%

Hofbrau was established by Wilhelm V in 1589. While its name means the Court (or Royal) Brewery, it is now owned by the Bavarian state government. Although massive by New Zealand standards, Hofbrau is actually the smallest of the 'big six' Munich breweries. This classic beer pours a rich gold with a firm head. It has an assertive malty nose and body before a cleansing bitter finish. 500ml $9.5

Tiger (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Now brewed locally under licence, Tiger was designed in its native Singapore to have a mild aroma, clean finish, relatively high level of sweetness and just a trace of hop bitterness. This profile makes it a quaffable lager in any environment. 425ml $8.5

Ales

Emerson's 'Bookbinder' (Dunedin, New Zealand) 3.7%

"Booky" is a deep and flavoursome blend of four malts and two local hop varieties. Soft, sweet and full in the body, the judicious use of Saaz and Fuggles hops help create a gentle palate-cleansing bitterness. This is almost certainly the best session ale in New Zealand. 425ml $8, 568ml (Imperial Pint) $9.5

Epic Pale Ale (Auckland, New Zealand) 5.4%

Epic was crowned Supreme Champion beer of New Zealand just weeks after it was launched. The impish brewer admits to using a 'shed load' of hops and says while others might consider that to be 'insane', he calls it 'flavour'. 425ml $8.5

Invercargill Brewery 'Pitch Black' (Invercargill, New Zealand) 4.5%

This velvety stout from New Zealand's southern-most brewery has received critical and popular acclaim for its complexity, depth and balance. It pours a deep black with a collar of coffee foam and has plenty of roasted, toasted flavours before a clean finish. This is a sumptuous beer despite its relatively modest strength. 425ml $8.5

Three Boys IPA (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5.2%

From a Christchurch microbrewery. The complex use of quality hops produces a beer which is full-flavoured with a tasty grapefruit character before a lovely long finish — the exclamation point on an outstanding ale. 425ml $8.5

Renaissance 'Stonecutter' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 7%

A Scotch Ale using an amazing grist of 9 different malts. It's dark and resplendent with hints of stonefruit, molasses, Christmas cake, toffee, chocolate and liquorice. Overall, a sumptuous beer. 425ml $9

Erdinger Weissbier (Germany) 5.3%

This classic, slightly cloudy, German wheat beer is fruity, spritzy, slightly tart, utterly refreshing and hard to resist. 300ml $8

Help is at hand. Never be shy to ask for help, suggestions, or for a taster of something on tap before you commit to a full glass. Our staff know their stuff — the training regime is predictably rigorous. . . — and will do their best to find you something to fit your mood.

The list here will be kept as up-to-date as possible, but does change frequently. Watch the blackboard for the latest additions, or ask the staff how to keep informed online.

In the Fridge

Featured Brewery: Brew Dog

Already Scotland's largest independent brewery, Brew Dog was only founded in 2006 but has garnered significant awards and developed a sizable range — all crafted with tongue slightly in cheek, and a thumb firmly in the eye of bland, “mass-market” brewing.

'Punk' (I.P.A.) 6%

“Postmodern classic pale ale”. Combining elements of British and American styles (and some Nelson hops), ‘Punk’ opens with delicious fruit flavours and then sneaks in with a sly bitter suckerpunch. 330ml $9.5, 660ml $17

'Chaos Theory' (I.P.A.) 7.1%

“Predictably random ale”. A deep copper and insanely hoppy I.P.A. brewed as a prototype run and voted into full production (along with ‘Zeitgeist’) by Brew Dog’s fans. Named for a celebrated achievement in 20th-Century science — and in honour of their ambition to be a freaky little butterfly sending ripples through the brewing world. 330ml $10

'Hardcore' (I.I.P.A.) 9%

“An extreme beer rollercoaster for freaks, gypsies and international chess superstars”. This Imperial I.P.A. bigger-brother of ‘Punk’, is billed as the highest-I.B.U. U.K.-brewed beer, at an alleged 150. That’s “International Bitterness Units” — a lager might be in the teens, and a (“normal”) I.P.A. might hover in the forties. Be warned. 330ml $11.5

'Zeitgeist' (Black Lager) 4.9%

A modern take on traditional European dark lagers, ‘Zeitgeist’ has roasted ‘burnt’ chocolatey notes sitting comfortably with zingy hops; all the refreshing restorativeness of a great lager, with a few more interesting angles built on, and more tailored for a Scottish “summer” — or our winter. The name and artwork were also turned into a community-driven beer website launched by Brew Dog but handed over to the public. 330ml $9

'Trashy Blonde' (Golden Ale) 4.1%

“A titillating, neurotic, peroxide, punk of a pale ale” with a biscuity malty base onto which juicy hop characters are liberally piled — some from New Zealand hops (though the Brew Dog boys can’t spell “Motueka”) which have now come back home. 330ml $9

'The Physics' (Amber Ale) 5%

A “laid back amber beer” indeed. Silky, with uncharacteristically-subtle hopping leaving room for smooth fruity and malty characters to shine through and coddle you in a nasty winter. The balancing bitterness has an assertive first grab, but a nice smooth follow-through. 330ml $9

'Paradox: Smokehead' (Whisky-barrel aged Imperial Stout) 10%

Batch #15 of Brew Dog’s continuing series of barrel-aged beers sees them combining forces with like-minded boundary-pushing whisky-makers from the Isle of Islay. Wafts of smoke, heavy peat and vanilla oak add complexity to the already-formidable stout. 330ml $20

'Paradox: Springbank' (Whisky-barrel aged Imperial Stout) 10%

For batch #17 of ‘Paradox’, Brew Dog turned to whisky legends Springbank. Here, the barrels impart further chocolate flavours to the stout, along with a certain sweetness, hints of creamy fruitiness and spices — and a long, long finish. 330ml $20

'Devine Rebel' (Barleywine) 12.1%

The Brew Dog boys teamed up with comparably-mad Danish freelance brewer ‘Mikkeller’ (Mikkel Borg Bjergsø) to create this single-hopped, partially whisky-barrel-aged brew propelled along by the addition of a champagne yeast. Only released in May, our bottles have hurried straight here, so make them feel welcome: sip and savour. 330ml $20

Lagers

Dux de Lux 'Dux' Lager (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

This is the best selling beer from the Dux de Lux. Described by the brewer as a "Sauv Blanc of Beers", this pale golden lager has a grassy nose, full body and a crisp, fresh finish. Dux Lager is a fine example of an easy-drinking, well-made beer. 500ml $12

Heineken (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Now brewed in New Zealand, this popular lager is enjoyed all around the world for its crisp, dry taste and soft, bitter finish. 330ml $7, 660ml $12

Invercargill 'Biman' (Invercargill, New Zealand) 5.2%

This beer was created to match the Indian cuisine at Biman's curry house in Invercargill. Biman bursts with tropical fruit flavours (lime, passionfruit and mango) before settling into a refreshing dry finish. Truly a unique quaffer from the deep south. 330ml $8

Moa 'Original' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5.5%

This 'very rare beer' was created by Josh Scott, son of winemaker Alan Scott. The brewing process uses winemaking techniques to produce a finely bubbled beer with floral, fruity, spicy nose. It tastes of orange and honey with a long lingering finish. An instant classic. 375ml $12, 750ml $20, 1.5l (Magnum) $40

Monteith's 'New Zealand' Lager (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Somewhat ironically, New Zealand Lager was never intended to be drunk here in New Zealand. It was going to be an export-only beer. However, the surging local demand for premium lagers has seen it debut with strong domestic sales. In the glass, this is a clean, well-balanced lager with a subtle depth of flavour. 330ml $7.5

Steinlager 'Classic' (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

Steinlager was first brewed in 1957 as Steinecker but the name legally had to be changed in 1962 to avoid confusion with Heineken. This dry lager has a grassy nose with dry astringent finish from the use of Green Bullet Hops. 330ml $8

Steinlager 'Pure' (Auckland, New Zealand) 5%

A 21st Century retooling of an iconic Kiwi brand, Steinlager 'Pure' is made with all natural local ingredients. The generous use of the trademark Green Bullet hops produces a crisp quenching lager. 330ml $8

Weka (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5%

From Josh Scott's Moa Brewery in Blenheim, Weka is a European style lager designed to be easy drinking and thirst quenching. Boasting a soft hop nose with a touch of grassiness, Weka is a bright gold beer which finishes crisp, clean and dry. 330ml $7

Amstel 'Premium' (Netherlands) 5%

Amstel is a popular Dutch beer that is quickly establishing a presence in New Zealand. Typical of pale European lagers, it pours a pale yellow with a good little head. It has touch of fruit in the mouth and a flowery bitterness which lifts it. 330ml $8

Beck's (Australia) 4.8%

Now brewed under licence in Australia, this popular golden beer has a fresh, green bouquet, a sweet middle and a dry, clean finish. Beck's also has a slight touch of fruitiness which sets it apart from other German beers of a similar style which tend to stay more dry. 330ml $8

Budvar (Czech Republic) 5%

One of the world's most famous beers, Budvar has been regarded as a classic since it was first made in 1895. A golden beer with pure white foam, Budvar has the requisite dry grassy hop aroma, the firm biscuity body with floral hints and a subtle but strong finish. Exceptionally well made. 330ml $8

Cobra (India) 5%

Cobra, like many Indian lagers, is a clear pale gold with a soft nose and a pleasant taste enlivened by a touch of honey. The finish is moderate with the overall impression being this is a simple, easy drinking lager well matched to hot food. 330ml $8

Grolsch (Netherlands) 5%

Virtually every New Zealander will have seen one of the distinctive Grolsch swing-top bottles holding tomato sauce on a restaurant table. This lager is known around the world for being easy-drinking with a balance of malt sweetness and subtle, grassy hops. 450ml $10

King Cobra (India & Belgium) 8%

The King Cobra comes in a distinguished bottle with a champagne cork and a pair of gold elephants on the front. It pours a soft, slightly cloudy gold with a lovely, lively, finely bubbled head. It is relatively soft flavoured with subtle hints of apple and orange and a distinctive twang. 375ml $17, 750ml $28

Kronenbourg '1664' (Australia) 5%

France's most famous beer is now the second biggest selling premium lager in Britain, and brewed more locally under licence. It is a continental lager which makes much of its use of the unusual yet aromatic Strisselspalt hop which the brewers describe as "the caviar of hops." 330ml $7.5

Peroni 'Nastro Azzuro' (Italy) 5.1%

Though Italy is not renowned for beer, increasing numbers of young Italians are eschewing wine in favour of beer. Peroni is one of the best selling brands in Italy and travels surprisingly well. "Blue ribbon" has a pleasant nose with hints of grass clippings, a smooth, light body and a crisp finish. This is an honest, quenching, continental lager. 330ml $8

Sapporo (Japan) 5%

This is a light and pleasant beer with a gentle hop aroma and crisp finish. Smooth and inoffensive, many consider Sapporo to be a particularly good match to grilled meats because it does not overwhelm them. It's not hard to see the attraction of this popular brew. 330ml $9

Sol (Mexico) 4.5%

Brewed since 1899, Sol is rapidly emerging as a major competitor to Corona. It has a slightly grassy hop finish and a touch of honey sweetness in the middle. Best drunk cold. 330ml $8

... Pilsners

See also on tap: Tuatara Pilsner (page 1).

Croucher Pilsner (Rotorua, New Zealand) 5%

A local take on the Bohemian pilsner, this beer uses New Zealand Motueka and Riwaka hops to provide a new world twist on a classic style. The brewer uses a small portion of wheat malt to help develop a generous head above a crisp, clean and refreshing lager. "Particularly luscious," the label rightly says. 300ml $8.5

Emerson's Organic Pilsner (Dunedin, New Zealand) 4.4%

This is one of two organic offerings in the growing Emerson's range of beer. It is balanced and full of flavour with a healthy citrus nose and a robust body bursting with lush fruit (including orange and sometimes passionfruit) before a long dry finish. Delicious. 500ml $11

Invercargill 'Wasp' (Invercargill, New Zealand) 5.2%

This small craft brewery in Invercargill supplied the beer for the world premiere of the "Worlds Fastest Indian". The beer apparently disappeared rather quickly too. Once a Kristal Weizen (filtered German wheat beer) then a golden ale, Wasp has now been reinvented as a honey pilsner. It is a crisp, refreshing lager with a hint of honey adding sweetness and spice to the body. 330ml $8

Three Boys Pils (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5.5%

If you have ever wondered what a perfectly balanced lager tastes like, try this true Czech style made pilsner without any crazy ingredients. It's just a complex blend of local malt and four varieties of hops to produce a simply great beer. 500ml $11

Bitburger Pils (Germany) 4.8%

One of the best selling pilsners in Germany, Bitburger has a dry, hoppy nose, a firm middle and lingering bitterness. Much of its quality comes from the long, three year maturation period. 330ml $8

Pilsner Urquell (Czech Republic) 4.4%

The first Pilsner from Pilsen, the town where it all started. Urquell ("urk-well") is the yardstick by which other pilsners and lagers are measured and many are found wanting. Their website modestly touts healing powers but you can decide for yourself. 330ml $8

Staropramen (Czech Republic) 5%

Despite some of the brewing equipment dating to the 1930s, Staropramen is a very credible beer with a grassy nose and toasted grain notes. The full body is countered with a thirst quenching finish called 'riz' which means 'just right' in Czech. 330ml $8

... Amber & Vienna Lagers

Founder's 'Redhead' (Nelson, New Zealand) 4.2%

A rare amber lager with a firm, fruity taste followed by a zingy hop finish. All of the Founder's beers are organic and suitable for vegans plus the brewery takes special care in minimising its impact on the environment. 500ml $10.5

Monteith's 'Celtic' (Auckland, New Zealand) 4.4%

Made to taste like a red Irish ale, the Celtic's smoky chocolate body and strong hop finish lends itself to matching with a wide selection of food dishes. 330ml $6.5

... Black Lagers

See also 'Zeitgeist', a Black Lager from Brew Dog (page 4).

Bennett's 'Classic Black' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

The best beer in the Bennett's range, this Schwarzbier (dark lager) pours close to pitch black with an espresso head. The dominant flavours are coffee and chocolate but there is also a hint of burnt toast which is more than appropriate as owner Maurice "The Toast Man" Bennett is well-known for his toast art. 330ml $8

Dux de Lux 'Hereford Bitter' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

Despite being named a bitter, this copper-coloured drop is actually a German-style dark lager. It has a relatively low carbonation rate which helps showcase layers of caramel, toffee and burnt toast flavours while retaining a high level of drinkability. 500ml $12

Founder's 'Long Black' (Nelson, New Zealand) 4.2%

The nose on this Schwarzbier (dark lager) is a spectacular smorgasbord of malt, nuts, chocolate, coffee, honey and maple syrup. In the glass you will find touches of coffee, smoke and chocolate. 500ml $10.5

Moa 'Noir' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5.5%

Moa Noir is the dark bird of the family. Its dark toffee pallor makes the whizzing bubbles harder to see but you can still feel them on your tongue. The Moa Noir abounds with roast coffee, chocolate, cocoa, honey and toffee notes before a bitter chocolate end. 375ml $11, 750ml $20

Monteith's 'Black' (Auckland, New Zealand) 5.2%

This dark lager is quite strong and tasty with chocolate, biscuit, malt and coffee notes. However, it's not a heavy beer and is still quite easy to drink. Let it warm up a bit to release the full range of flavours. 330ml $6.5

Wigram 'Munchner' Dunkel (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5.2%

The Munchner Dunkel is a ruby beer with a mild roast malt aroma as well as caramel, chocolate and nut flavours. It meets the Reinheitsgetbot or German beer purity laws which state that only malt, hops, yeast and water should be used. 500ml $10.5

Hofbrau 'Munchen' Dunkel (Germany) 5.5%

The Royal Brewery in Munich was originally established by the Duke of Bavaria Wilhelm V in 1589. The Dunkel is a dark red-brown beer with a robust malt and caramel nose. The beer itself is well-rounded with a good bitterness at the end. 330ml $9.5

Ales

See also on tap: Emerson's 'Bookbinder' (page 3). And see also 'The Physics', an Amber Ale from Brew Dog (page 4).

Croucher Pale Ale (Rotorua, New Zealand) 5%

This is the flagship beer from Croucher Brewing Company. Former university lecturer Paul Croucher has created a burnished golden ale which throws a punchy nose of hops and tropical fruit. It has a full, biscuity body with pronounced orange and caramel notes. The beer finishes strongly with a lingering dry finish which leaves you immediately ready for the next taste. 330ml $8.5

Dux de Lux 'Nor'Wester' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 6.5%

This is the flagship beer from the iconic Dux De Lux brewpub in Christchurch. Brewed in the style of an English strong pale ale, the Nor'Wester is one of New Zealand's finest beers. It combines an inviting herbal nose, a firm body with hints of orange and stone-fruit and a strong, resinous hop finish. 500ml $12

Emerson's 'Old 95' (Dunedin, New Zealand) 7%

Based on the English tradition of strong, warming winter ales, Old 95 is a tawny beer topped with a finely bubbled head. The nose is warm and inviting with a hint of cooked honey. In the glass, Old 95 showcases fruit and spice, reminding some of the slightly burnt edge of a proper fruit cake. This is an outstanding sipper. 500ml $11

Founder's 'Fair Maiden' Pale Ale (Nelson, New Zealand) 5.2%

Not content with being a certified organic, vegan-friendly, GE-free and environmentally conscious brewery, Founder's in Nelson are now officially kosher as well. The Fair Maiden is the first solo beer from Matt Duncan, a sixth generation brewer. It showcases a beautiful balance between the fruity hops and the toffee notes from the malt. 500ml $11

Founder's 'Generation Ale' (Nelson, New Zealand) 4.2%

This nut-brown beer is the favourite of fifth-generation Nelson brewer, John Duncan. It's a wonderfully chewy, roasted toasted brew with a hint of fruit and chocolate. Complex and interesting, just like our bar staff. 500ml $10.5

Mike's Organic Ale (Taranaki, New Zealand) 4%

From one of the smallest commercial breweries in New Zealand, Mike's Organic Ale is the 21st century incarnation of the iconic Mike's Mild. Pouring an appetising dark brown, this nutty mild ale has touches of coffee, chocolate and raisin before a cleansing dry finish. 330ml $7.5

Moa 'Five Hop Winter Ale' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 6.2%

This was the first ale produced by the Moa Brewery and it truly is an innovative spin on the winter ale genre. Describing itself as a 'New World Extra Special Bitter', this balanced beer showcases toffee, caramel and orange notes backed by a firm body. This is a serious beer. 375ml $11

Renaissance 'Perfection' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5%

One of the founding beers from this decorated Blenheim craft brewery, Perfection is full-bodied, strongly flavoured and backed up by plenty of hops. The nose is punchy and slightly spicy, while the beer itself is creamy with notes of biscuit and toffee. 500ml $12

Boddington's 'Pub Ale' (England) 4.7%

New Zealand is officially the farthest place from the brewery that this English bitter travels. It pours golden with its trademark thick, fluffy head. It is lightly hopped on the nose and has a subdued flavour profile for maximum drink-ability. 440ml (Widgeted can) $9.5

Cooper's Pale Ale (Australia) 4.5%

There are rumours that Cooper's do not produce hangovers because of the yeast in their bottle. Unfortunately, this is simply not true. Nonetheless, this quenching ale has hints of orange, apple and vanilla with a stunning crisp finish. 375ml $8

Fuller's '1845' (England) 6.3%

The flagship beer from the historic and award-winning Fuller's brewery in London, 1845 is a strong English ale. The aroma is reminiscent of the best sort of fruit cake while the beer is a beguiling mix of spice, marmalade and nutmeg topped off by a dry, fruity finish. A distinctively English ale which has won numerous accolades and fans. 500ml $11.5

Fuller's E.S.B. (England) 5.9%

First brewed in 1971, Fuller's Extra Special Bitter is a robust beer with a balance of dark rich malts and a mix of classic English hops. It has a slightly nutty aroma followed by an authoritative body enlivened by touches of fruit and spice. A softly bitter finish makes this beer dangerously drinkable. 500ml $12

Fuller's 'London Pride' (England) 4.7%

From the historic and award-winning Fuller's brewery, London Pride is the best selling premium ale in the hugely competitive British market. A classic example of an English session beer, London Pride combines a hoppy nose, a sweet, oaky body and a rounded finish to produce a beer which is undeniably moreish. 500ml $11

Kilkenny (Ireland) 4.3%

Unlike the pitch black bitterness of Guinness, Kilkenny is a creamy red ale with a more mellow approach. It has a thick head and a soft sweet aroma. This fine beer is malt dominated with a just a late kick of hops near the end. 440ml (Widgeted can) $9

Morland 'Old Speckled Hen' (England) 5.2%

Unrepentant and eccentric, the Hen is like a loveable uncle who visits occasionally, but is always the life of the party. It's an amber beer with a full, sweet caramel body and a dry, peppery finish. It should definitely visit more often. 500ml $12

Tetley's (England) 3.6%

Brewed a little stronger for export, this amber bitter pours with a distinctive big English head designed to last all the way down the glass. It has a mild toasty malt flavour, roast caramel in the middle and a moderately bitter finish. 440ml (Widgeted can) $9

... India Pale Ales

See also on tap: Tuatara IPA (page 1) and Three Boys IPA (page 3). And see also in bottles: 'Punk', 'Chaos Theory' and 'Hardcore', two IPAs and an Imperial IPA from Brew Dog (page 4).

Emerson's '1812' (Dunedin, New Zealand) 5%

This was the first New Zealand craft beer to shoot to international prominence when it was named as one of the world's top 500 beers. The full, rounded, juicy malt body has orange, caramel and nut flavours. The 1812 has a strong finish and is overall a marvellous beverage. 500ml $11

Belhaven 'Twisted Thistle' (Scotland) 6.1%

While lacking a history of Indian summers, Scottish brewers are increasingly picking up the India Pale Ale style. The Twisted Thistle is well hopped and has a lovely herbal, grassy, piney nose. The body is full enough to support a bitter-dry finish. 500ml $12.5

... American Pale Ales

See also on tap: Epic Pale Ale (page 3).

Renaissance 'Discovery' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 4.5%

Originally a special release, Discovery proved so popular it has joined the excellent range from Renaissance Brewing in Blenheim. American Pale Ales tend to showcase big, bold hops. Discovery uses Willamette and Cascade hops to produce a full-bodied dark golden ale with a lingering resinous finish. 500ml $12.5

Little Creatures Pale Ale (Australia) 5.2%

The Little Creatures brewery is located in a former crocodile farm in Fremantle, WA. The use of American hop flowers takes this beer to whole new levels of aroma, flavour and bitterness. Pouring slightly cloudy because of the "little creatures" (yeast) left in the bottle, this is a seriously tasty drop with lashings of hop, pine, citrus, grapefruit and lychee notes before a rousing bitter finish. 330ml $9

... Porters & Stouts

See also on tap: Tuatara Porter (page 1) and Invercargill 'Pitch Black' (page 3). And see also in bottles: 'Paradox: Smokehead' and 'Paradox: Springbank', two whisky-barrel-aged Imperial Stouts from Brew Dog (page 4).

Dux de Lux 'Sou'Wester' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 6.5%

Sou'Wester stout is a silky, creamy beer with notes of milk chocolate, roast coffee and toasted nuts. The iconic Christchurch Dux de Lux brewpub produces what is rightly regarded as one of the country's best stouts. 500ml $12

Green Man Stout (Dunedin, New Zealand) 7%

Green Man is a Dunedin brewery which uses only organic ingredients. The name was chosen because the Green Man is an ancient figure linking nature and man. Producing a large range of beer styles, the Stout is one of their best-regarded brews. This very dark, robust stout has a mix of creamy chocolate, dark fruit and coffee bean notes followed by a firm, dry finish. 500ml $12

Emerson's 'London' Porter (Dunedin, New Zealand) 5%

A wonderful example of this classic style, Emerson's London Porter is deep brown ale with hints of red against the light. It is full, slightly creamy with a delicate balance of chocolate, coffee and earthy hops. Little wonder that porter was once the world's most drunk beer style. 500ml $11

Three Boys Porter (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5.2%

Like all the Three Boys range, this fine example of a Porter is not filtered or pasteurised. When poured, it throws a nose of coffee, chocolate and blackcurrant. It's light in the mouth and has milk chocolate and coffee notes before a gently astringent finish. 500ml $11

Three Boys Oyster Stout (Christchurch, New Zealand) 6.2%

Oyster Stout is actually a very old and respected style of beer. This version is made annually with a "boatload" of genuine Bluff oysters. The nose is outstanding with notes of coffee, figs and smoke. It is a rich, creamy, complex beer with hints of coffee, chocolate, smoke, molasses and even leather. 500ml $11.5

Cooper's 'Best Extra' Stout (Australia) 6.3%

A conveniently unverifiable legend says this beer is recommended by blood banks in Australia because of its high iron content. However, what we can verify is its dry, roasty and earthy nose with flavours of iced coffee, toast and cream. It is a dry, dark brew. 355ml $9

Guinness Extra Stout (Ireland) 4.2%

It's unlikely there is anyone who is unaware of the almost mystical aura of Guinness even if they have never had a drop of the Black Gold. Producing a nose of bitter roasted malt, Guinness is creamy and satisfying with an astringent finish. 440ml (Widgeted can) $9

Young's 'Double Chocolate' Stout (England) 5.2%

Who doesn't dream the impossible dream of combining beer and chocolate? Young's have gone one better and successfully used real dark chocolate to brew this 'indulgent oddity'. It has a surprisingly crisp finish and reminds many of a frothy chocolate milkshake. 500ml $12

... Scotch Ales

See also on tap: Renaissance 'Stonecutter' (page 3). And see also in bottles: Mc Chouffe, a Scotch-Ale-inspired Belgian beer (page 13).

Belhaven Wee Heavy (Scotland) 6.5%

Wee Heavy is a strong beer designed to be sipped, savoured and fully respected. The nose is malty with a hint of nuts and raisins. Quite full in the mouth it is relatively sweet with more touches of raisin and a firm, slightly nutty finish. 500ml $12.5

Traquair 'House Ale' (Scotland) 7.2%

Brewed in a historic Scottish manor house, their trademark House Ale is one of the most esteemed Scottish beers. Strong and rich, this ale is characterised by serious notes of malt, plums, vanilla, oak and perhaps even a late hint of sherry. It is a beer to savour slowly. 330ml $15

... Wheat Beers

Croucher 'The Hef' (Rotorua, New Zealand) 5%

This German-style wheat beer is actually brewed in Rotorua, the aromatic capital of New Zealand. The name is both a play on Hefe-weizen (cloudy wheat beer) and a nod to Hugh Hefner. It taps into drinkers' growing interest in wheat beers by showcasing the traditional characteristics of banana, bubblegum and cloves. Paul Croucher describes 'The Hef' as "disturbingly refreshing". 330ml $8.5

Moa 'Blanc' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5.5%

Blanc is another interesting offering from Josh Scott and the innovative Moa brewery in Blenheim. This pale yellow beer shows off the streams of tiny yet strong bubbles to perfection is overall fruity, spicy and very effervescent. 375ml $11, 750ml $20

Three Boys Wheat (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

This is an interesting twist on the popular Belgian style wheat beer. Instead of the usual orange peel they use lemon zest even though zesting buckets of lemons is their least favourite part of brewing. The result is a refreshing nose of citrus and coriander culminating in a creamy, spicy beer with a sour citrus snap and a long spicy finish. 500ml $11

Hoegaarden Wit (Belgium) 4.9%

Belgian wheat beers are a hugely popular style thanks in no small part to Hoegaarden White. The beer has a creamy tartness as well as added coriander and Curaçao orange peel for flavour. Hoegaarden is a fruity, spicy beer which is amazingly refreshing. 330ml $9.5

Hofbräu 'Münchner' Weisse (Germany) 5.1%

This cloudy wheat beer is hugely popular at the Hofbrauhaus in Munich. The Weisse is dominated by the aromas and flavours of banana, clove, malt and wheat. It has a very refreshing tart finish instead of the hop bitterness of other styles. 500ml $10.5

Hofbräu Schwarze Weisse (Germany) 5.1%

At Oktoberfest, the Hofbrau tent can hold 10,000 revellers at a time and even has balconies. Their Schwarze (black) beer has spice and caramel in the aroma while the beer has distinct banana notes. Is a light, easy drinking dunkelweizen. 500ml $10.5

Schneider Weiss (Germany) 5.4%

The copper coloured Schneider Weiss has a thick heavy head and throws an aroma of banana, clove and nutmeg. The body is creamy with hints of banana and clove before a lip-smackingly tart finish. 500ml $12

Schneider 'Aventinus' Weisse Doppelbock (Germany) 8.2%

This is a beer with a big name and big reputation. The beer is spicy with hints of banana, cloves, caramel, figs and raisins before a smoothly rounded tart finish. The sharp bubbles provide a quenching acidity in what is quite a remarkable brew. 500ml $15

Schöfferhofer Hefeweizen (Germany) 5%

From one of the world's best wheat beer brewers, Schöfferhofer Hefe is the epitome of a classic German hefeweizen (cloudy wheat beer). It pours naturally cloudy with a strong head. The expected flavours are there with plenty of citrus (bananas), spice (cloves), bubblegum and boiled candy. The finish is tart rather than bitter. 500ml $12.5

Schöfferhofer Kristallweizen (Germany) 5%

A filtered version of the classic Schöfferhofer Hefe. While it would not appeal to wheat beer purists, filtering out the yeast produces a light, crisper and, some would argue, more quenching beer. Kristal is the shortened German version of crystal clear. 500ml $12.5

... Golden Ales

See also 'Trashy Blonde', a Golden Ale from Brew Dog (page 4).

Cooper's Sparkling Ale (Australia) 5.8%

This beer was first made in the 1850s by Thomas Cooper. He made it from an old family recipe to cure his wife's illness. The Sparkling Ale is a cloudy golden beer with a full nose of apples and bananas and a robust body chased by a quenching dry finish. 375ml $8, 750ml $15

... Belgian Ales

Moa 'St. Joseph' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 9.5%

This complex beer is a rare New Zealand example of an Abbey-style Belgian Tripel. Strong in alcohol and flavour, Moa St Joseph looks to balance phenolic and ester flavours with a robust bitter finish. In the glass it has notes of banana, yeast, spice, orange and honey. 375ml $12.5

3 Monts (France) 8.5%

This is a bottle-conditioned ale in the old farm style (bière de garde) served from a spectacular corked bottle. It pours a pleasant cloudy gold with a strong, finely bubbled head. 3 Monts has a pungent, astringent nose followed by a full, fruity and yeasty flavour and lingering bitterness which never seems to surrender. It's complex, strong and funky and overall a fine and interesting drop. 750ml $26

Chimay 'Blanche' (White) / Cinq Cents (Belgium — Authentic Trappist) 8%

Like all Trappist beers, the Chimay White is not pasteurised and is refermented in the bottle. This helps it age and over time it will become drier. The White is a lighter beer with a dry, yeasty, hoppy nose. It is fruity (oranges and juniper) and spicy with a dry, peppery finish. 330ml $13, 750ml $28

Chimay 'Bleue' (Blue) / Grand Réserve (Belgium — Authentic Trappist) 9%

This is one of the most famous beers in the world. It is a rich dark beer with an aromatic and lively nose of yeast, flowers, honey, malt and spices. In the mouth there is fruit (redcurrant) and spices (thyme, pepper, nutmeg) dancing along the lively bubbles. This beer becomes more like a port as it ages and a selection of vintages are usually available. 330ml $14, 750ml $30-$55, 1.5l (Magnum) $85

Chimay 'Rouge' (Red) / Première (Belgium — Authentic Trappist) 7%

Brewed by Trappist monks, the Chimay beers enjoy a deserved reputation for outstanding quality. The flavours here are a startling mix of silky sweetness, raisins, currants and spice before a luxurious finish. As a sign near a Belgian monastery asks: "The good Lord has changed water into wine, so how can drinking beer be a sin?" 330ml $12, 750ml $26

La Chouffe (Belgium) 8%

A quirky yet delicious Belgian Strong Ale created by a pair of Belgian brothers-in-law. The beer is named after the mischievous gnomes who allegedly inhabit the Ardennes region. This strong, spicy ale has a touch of coriander and perfectly showcases the traditional fluffy Belgian head. 750ml $28

Mc Chouffe (Belgium) 8%

Belgian beer culture has a strong Scottish influence thanks in part to the large number of Scottish soldiers stationed there during the First World War. The Belgians enjoyed the dark, malty brews favoured by the Scots and now make a number of their own beers in a similar style. Mc Chouffe is an earthy drop with notes of spice, caramel, fruit, wood and smoke. 750ml $28

Duvel (Belgium) 8.5%

After tasting the first experimental batch, someone in the brewery remarked that it was 'a devil of a beer' hence the Flemish corruption, Duvel ("Doo-vul"). Enormously complex to make, it pours with a massive head and throws a strong nose. It has flavours of orange zest, pear brandy and green apples before a long dry finish. 330ml $12, 750ml $27, 3l (Jereboam) $180, 6l (Methuselah) $350

Hoegaarden 'Forbidden Fruit' (Belgium) 8.8%

Forbidden Fruit has at times been denied entry into southern states of America due to the allegedly 'racy' picture on the label. It is a rich and complicated Belgian Ale with a fruity body of cherries, plums and raisins before a spicy, dry finish. 330ml $10.5

Leffe Blonde (Belgium) 6.6%

This clear, golden beer has a soft, fruity, orange nose with a smooth body highlighted by a little yeast and spice. Leffe Blonde is excellent place to start for those wanting to explore the world of Belgian beer. 330ml $9.5

Leffe Brune (Belgium) 6.5%

As the name would suggest, Leffe Brune is the darker counterpart to Leffe Blonde. It makes an interesting contrast with the much more roasted and darker malts producing quite a different beer. It is softly sweet with hints of rich fruit and nuts before a gentle finish. 330ml $9.5

Leffe 'Radiouse' (Belgium) 8.5%

The word radiouse refers to the glow surrounding the heads of saints and is a play on the brewery's connections to the Abbey Notre-Dame de Leffe. The beer is a deep amber with a sweet, caramel, earthy nose. The body and finish are peachy, sweet and almost vinous. 330ml $11.5

Orval (Belgium — Authentic Trappist) 6.2%

This is the only commercial beer produced by this brewery. The Orval has a unique fruity and acidic nose with a hint of horseblanket. It is piquant and peppery before a long bitter finish courtesy of the semi-wild yeast. 330ml $11.5

Palm 'Export' (Belgium) 5.4%

The famous Brabant horse is featured on the Palm bottle while the contents are a light chestnut beer with a dense head. The nose is citric with orange and apple evident, while the beer is mild with a dry, spicy finish. This a well-made, clean, pale ale. 330ml $8.5

... Barleywines

See also: Thomas Hardy's Ale (page 15) and Brew Dog 'Devine Rebel' (page 4).

Twisted Hop 'Epiphany' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 10.5%

This barleywine has been aged in American oak wine cases to enhance its already powerful flavour profile. Pouring a deep copper colour, the nose is floral with a hint of cherry. In the glass, Enigma is full-bodied and sweet with notes of stone fruit, hops, vanilla and tannin. 330ml $15

... Vintaged Ales

See also Chimay Grand Réserve, a vintage-dated Belgian ale (page 13).

Cooper's Vintage Ale (Australia) 7.5%

In general, most beer is best drunk fresh. However, some beers age gracefully and a few age well. This is one of those select few. The Malthouse will be building up a cellar of the Vintage Ale, so please ask what is available. 375ml $12.5

Fuller's Vintage Ale 2005 (England) 8.5%

This Vintage has spicy and peppery notes on the nose followed by a hint of toffee and vanilla. An incredibly well rounded beer, the malt flavours are softened by the spicy, citrus notes from the Fuggles hops. 500ml $20

Fuller's Vintage Ale 2006 (England) 8.5%

This full-bodied vintage is brewed with Fuggles and Super Styrian hops that create a tapestry of rich, spicy flavours. Orange, citrus and fruitcake notes are all present, and are balanced well with the biscuity, creamy malt flavours leaving a soft and warming finish. 500ml $18

O'Hanlon's 'Thomas Hardy's Ale' (England) 11.7%

The beer enthusiast's equivalent of rare cognac. Bottle-conditioned to mature like fine wine, this will improve with age for at least 26 years (and still counting). We can't quite match that vintage (and the associated price tag) but we can offer a selected range. Still quite young, the Thomas Hardy beers are already huge, strong and assertive. These aren't for faint of palate. Commonly recorded aromas and flavours include plum, raisins, caramel, vanilla, oak, smoked wood, honey and figs. Every bottle is a unique drinking experience worth sharing with friends. 250ml: 2003 $32.5, 2004 $26, 2005 $22

Fruit & Spice Beers (and Ciders)

Bennett's 'Four Seasons' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

Ginger, honey, lemon juice, coriander, vanilla and tangelos have all gone into various beers over the years but probably never all into the same one. This soft golden beer will appeal to everyone who enjoys a summer beer. 330ml $8

Dux de Lux 'Ginger Tom' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 4%

This full-strength "ginger beer" (really an infused lager) works equally well as a summer quencher or a spicy winter warmer. Brewed in the old-fashioned style, Ginger Tom is spicy with a strong, dry ginger bite balanced by a hint of honey. 500ml $12

Invercargill 'Boysenbeery' (Invercargill, New Zealand) 6.5%

Described as a "Belgium-style kriek beer with a Kiwi twist", Boysenbeery pours dark red with a distinctive pink foam. Possibly the first commercial beer in the country to use boysenberries, the flavour profile is highlighted by big, fat berry notes before a dry finish resets the palate. This is a tart, spicy and unique offering from one of the rising stars of New Zealand brewing. 640ml $17

Invercargill 'Smokin' Bishop' (Invercargill, New Zealand) 7%

This is a strong German-style bock made using malt which has been smoked over manuka. As a result, the country's only Rauchbier (smoked beer) is a dark, lustrous brew with an intriguing nose of sweetness and smoke which reminds some drinkers of a grilled breakfast. The flavours are firm and deep with elements of malt sweetness, caramel and whiffs of smoke before a dry finish. 640ml $17

Moa 'Harvest' (Blenheim, New Zealand) 5.5%

Brewed with wheat, Nelson hops and Marlborough cherries, Harvest is a surprisingly golden fruit beer from Blenheim. The cherries are subtle, adding sweetness to the nose and tartness to the flavour. A dry finish keeps it from becoming cloying. This is a most interesting take on the style. 375ml $11

Wigram 'James Cook Spruce Beer' (Christchurch, New Zealand) 5%

This beer is made (roughly) to the recipe used by Captain James Cook when he made Australasia's first beer in 1773. It has an aromatic, spicy pine nose while the body is a fascinating creamy mix of honey, molasses and sherry. It is a glimpse into a very different style of beer. 500ml $11

Boon Kriek (Belgium) 4.5%

This is a genuine lambic which is the oldest surviving beer style, dating back at least four centuries. In a lambic, the beer is exposed to natural, wild yeasts in shallow open vessels. Lambics are also aged for months in unlined, wooden port or sherry casks to create more flavour. The beer has both sweet and sour flavours with hints of vanilla and yeast. 375ml $12.5

Timmerman's Framboise (Belgium) 4%

A classic Belgian style of raspberry beer made with the aid of some wild yeast. The result is a dark red beer with a pink collar. It tastes of raspberry with a hint of strawberries at times. It is a sweet beer which lacks the acidity of other lambic beers like Boon. A very approachable fruit beer for those who say they don't like beer. 330ml $11

... Ciders

Bulmer's Cider (Gisborne, New Zealand) 4.6%

Bulmer's has been making cider for over 120 years and is now being produced under licence here. It has a reddish-tinge in the glass, is full-bodied and sits at the slightly sweeter end of the scale. This is already the third most popular cider in New Zealand. 500ml $9

Invercargill 'Nally's' Cider (Invercargill, New Zealand) 5%

Noted brewer Steve Nally uses the traditional rack and cloth method to make his acclaimed cider. The use of Central Otago apples and a six-month conditioning period help create an effervescent cider which is naturally crisp, fresh and delicious. 330ml $7.5

Lower-alcohol Beers

Bittburger 'Drive' (Germany) 0.0%

Because it is fully fermented, there's no need for it to be pasteurised, leaving it tasting especially fresh. That's why the German National Football Team drinks it! 330ml $6.5

Amstel Light (Netherlands) 2.5%

Unusually, this light beer is both lower in alcohol and lower in calories. It contains around 35% fewer calories than regular lager while being every bit as thirst quenching and refreshing. 330ml $6.5
